

Psychological Society
unity of minds

Why join the UC Psychological Society?

The Society offers support to its members by providing an avenue for those interested in psychology to interact with likeminded students as well as faculty members. The society encourages full member involvement and will provide networking opportunities through functions and activities. The society aims to act as a source of information regarding occupations in psychology and further study opportunities. Joining the UCPS can provide valuable extra curricular experience when looking for a graduate position.

If you are interested in meeting new people, looking for advice regarding your academic studies or future career come join the UCPS.

How to Join:

Membership is $5 and forms are available from the Psychology Office in Building 3. Additionally, membership can be paid either by organising to meet with a committee member or at the UCU office (Level 1 of the refectory).

UC PSYCHOLOGICAL SOCIETY

UCU, University of Canberra ACT 2617

Email: ucpsychsociety@hotmail.com

