About this course

Learn how to empower and transform the lives of those in need

Explore the science and strategies that enable individuals to lead full, meaningful lives regardless of age, disability or social and mental limitations with this thought-provoking two-year, full-time UC Master of Occupational Therapy course.

This study pathway is ideal for students committed to a career that transforms the lives of everyday people and who are serious about earning the qualifications to prove it.

In this course, you will develop a deeper understanding and appreciation of health-related issues, enhance your credentials with research-based competencies and gain valuable hands-on experience in real-life scenarios.

Completing this course will earn you a qualification recognised by Occupational Therapy Australia and the World Federation of Occupational Therapists, which can open doors to global opportunities in the health profession.

Apply today and make a difference in the lives of others.

Study a Master of Occupational Therapy and you will:

- learn how to empower people to engage in the occupations they need to, want to or are expected to perform.
- work with a variety of people, including those who have an impairment of body structure or function, are restricted in their participation or are socially excluded.
- develop the qualities of critical thinking, curiosity, and reflective practice.
- use your foresight, initiative and leadership skills to communicate effectively with clients and work in inter-professional teams.
- acquire essential professional practice ethics and traits, such as multi-cultural appreciation and respect for others.

Work Integrated Learning (WIL)

WIL is an integral part of this course, giving you an invaluable opportunity to gain practical experience and form strong relationships with industry stakeholders and professionals before graduating.

Over two years, you'll participate in 1000 hours of practical education in places such as hospitals, health clinics, community organisations, schools and aged care facilities both locally and nationally.

Placements are on a full-time basis and will require interstate travel. Accommodation and transport costs are the student's responsibility. For further information on WIL, please visit <https://www.canberra.edu.au/current-students/canberra-students/work-integrated-learning>.

Career opportunities

UC Master of Occupational Therapy students will graduate into an industry that is expected to experience enormous and continuous growth as the aging population of Australia and the rest of the world continues to grow.

As a result, there is expected to be a high demand for those with a master's in Occupational Therapy to help guide research and policy practices in a variety of areas, including aged care, disability services, paediatric services, as well as many other community-based support services.

Once graduated, students can choose to continue with further study or move into a variety of jobs in a range of public, private and voluntary sectors, including:

- homes, schools and workplaces
- health and rehabilitation centres
- supported accommodation
- aged care
- hospitals.

Course-specific information

Prior to undertaking any clinical placement, students will be required to:
