This degree also prepares students for postgraduate studies.	.
Application of knowledge and skills - Graduates of the Bachelor of Marketing Management will be able to apply the knowledge and skills acquired to a diverse range of problems that early career professionals would be expected to deal with such as the preparation of a marketing plan. As students progress through the course, they will develop the capacity to exercise their own initiative and professional judgement in an ethically responsible manner to analyse problems that are less clearly defined, more complex, and require application of concepts in a variety of disciplinary and sub-disciplinary contexts. Graduates will engage in applied research, teamwork, and negotiation skills as well as the use of electronic media in a variety of setting. The use of team work will develop further these skills and develop communication skills.	.
In particular student will be able: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - to work independently as well as part of a team - to use information technology effectively - identify economic, socio, cultural and legal contexts that impact on marketing decision making - apply concepts, principles and theories to marketing management tasks - analyse problems and provide appropriate solutions as part of marketing research - demonstrate skills in analysing data and information - display a professional attitude based on social responsibility and ethics principles - demonstrate creativity and leadership - understand the role of marketing management in private, public and not for profit enterprises - show social responsibility and consider sustainability in decision making. 	.
Skills - Graduates will develop: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - the cognitive skills required to critically analyze, evaluate and synthesize concepts and theories acquired in one or more of the following discipline areas: Accounting, Banking & Financial Services, Business Administration, Economics, Financial Planning, Human Resource Management, Information Systems, International Business, Marketing Management, Public Sector Management, or Tourism Management. This will enable students to analyse market environments in order to determine strategic options and implement effective marketing plans. 	.

- the technical and generic skills required to apply discipline-specific technologies in one or more of those discipline areas, including the ability to analyse data.

- the independent learning skills needed to stay up-to-date with advances in theoretical frameworks and professional practices after graduation,

- the personal skills required to provide professional advice in the discipline or disciplines they choose to study. Graduates will be able to exercise critical thinking and applied analytical skills in identifying which information is relevant to specific decisions being made. They will also be able to identify whether they have all relevant information when advising clients or management, and have the ability to succinctly request or obtain missing information.

- the communication skills needed to present a clear, coherent and independent exposition of knowledge and ideas to a variety of stakeholders in written, oral or electronic media.
