

Through the creation of this project "Abstract", I was inspired by the natural forms and shapes of the world, thus I created a unique shaped and styled cafe, which implemented natural forms, textures and shapes, allowing me to create a space that was welcoming, cosy and comfortable. Additionally, through the creation of this project, I used adobe photoshop and sketchup as well as a CAD to get the renders, allowing me to see theCafe in a realistic way and understand the functionality of the design. This project was created as a vision for a Cafe out the back of Whitehouse Institute of Design, on their Surry Hills campus, allowing for students to be able to access a cafe when they wanted. I completed this project, as my final submission for my Certificate III in Interior Design. Therefore, through the creation of this project I was able to learn new skills and adapt them into creating more works in my future.
